SEWING CLUB ENJOYS CHRISTMAS DINNER

Mrs. Orville Beers of Circleville entertained the members of her sewing club at their annual Christmas dinner at her home Thursday.

A beautifully lighted and decorated Christmas tree was an attraction in the room where the guests were assembled and the tables for the turkey dinner at 12:30 o'clock were handsomely appointed with Christmas colors and symbols.

Covers were laid for Mrs. William Anderson and Miss Ruth Beers, guests of the club, Mrs. A. Dunkle, Mrs. Margaret Cullums, Mrs. B. F. Courtright, Mrs. R. T. Ston, Miss Helen Liston, Mrs. H. Morris, Mrs. Emerson Martin, Miss Ida Hoffman, Mrs. William Wefler, Miss Mary Miller, Mrs. G. M. Newton, Mrs. H. Warner, Mrs. John Heffner, and Mrs. Stanley Glick.

Sewing was enjoyed after the dinner and the exchange of gifts afforded a merry hour.

The January meeting of the club will be at the home of Miss A. Hoffman, E. Union-st.

PRENUPTIAL PARTY FOR MISS COURTRIGHT

Continuing the round of pre-nuptial parties for Miss Peggy Courtright, E. Mound-st. bride-elect of Mr. John Blosser of Chillicothe, Misses Martha and Jane Mader, E. Main-st., entertained with a charming evening bridge at their home Thursday.

Holly decorated the room where nineteen guests were assembled for the gay hours at the card tables. With the awarding of attractive favors for high score to Mrs. Karl Mason and Mrs. Andrew Thomas, a lovely guest prize was presented Miss Courtright.

A delicious lunch was served at prettily appointed small tables at the close of the game bringing the delightful affair to a close.

Guests included Miss Courtright, Misses Harriett Mason, Mary Margaret Moore, Ann Bennett, Helen and Eleanor Snyder, Helen Yates, Virginia Given, Marian, Helen and Jane Hitler, Mary May Haswell, Katherine Frisch, Catherine Smith, Mildred Ritt, Jeanne Crowe, Mrs. Karl Mason, Mrs. James Adams and Mrs. Andrew Thomas.

MRS. LIST HOSTESS TO LADIES' SOCIETY

Mrs. John List of Muhlenburg-twp. was hostess to members of the Ladies' society of Christ Lutheran church Thursday afternoon at her home when they gathered for their December session.

Dr. G. J. Troutman opened the meeting with a devotional period followed by a business meeting at which time officers for 1935 were elected.

Mrs. Harry Kern was chosen vice president; Miss Bertha Krimmel, treasurer; Miss Ethel Kern, secretary; Mrs. Harry Hill, pianist; and Mrs. Adam List, reporting secretary.

A short program followed consisting of a piano solo by Miss Bertha Krimmel; reading, "While People Slept," by Mrs. Harry Kern, and a reading, "Little Rocket's Christmas," Mrs. George List.

A covered-dish luncheon was served at the close of the meeting to the twenty five members present.

W. M. S. ELECTS OFFICERS AT DECEMBER MEETING

The members of the Women's Missionary society of the Calvary Evangelical church met Thursday evening at the church for their December session at which time officers for the ensuing year were elected.

Mrs. E. Radebaugh was named president; Miss Mae Hudnell, first vice president; Mrs. June Martin-dale, second vice president; Minnie Wilkerson, third vice president; Mrs. John Miller, fourth vice president; Miss Francis Kibler, recording secretary; Miss Mary Hunter, treasurer; Miss Lydia Leist, corresponding secretary; Mrs. C. J. Smith, secretary of Little Heralds; Miss Rachel Radebaugh, secretary of Mission Band; Mrs. E. Radebaugh, Y. P. M. C. advisor; Miss Lydia Leist, secretary of literature.

MRS. ATER ENTERTAINS SEWING CLUB MEMBERS

An enjoyable afternoon of sewing was spent at the home of Mrs. Clarence Aler, Pleasant-st., by members of her sewing club Thursday afternoon.

The happy hours were brought to a close when refreshments were served.

Mrs. Ralph Boggs, Pickaway-twp., invited the club to her home for its next meeting.

DRESBACH LADIES' AID MEETS AT LEMLEY HOME

The December meeting of the Dresbach Ladies' Aid was held Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. William Lemley of Pickaway-twp. with seventeen members and guests present.

A covered-dish luncheon at noon preceded the business meeting which was followed by an afternoon spent in music and a discussion of ways and means to earn money for the church.

Mrs. Guy Drum of near Cedar Hill will entertain members at the January meeting.

GENE RADER MEMBER OF SCHOOL DRAMATIC SOCIETY

Miss Gene Rader, a sophomore in the elementary normal course at Capital university, Columbus, and a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel G. Rader Northridge-rd., for the second year is a member of the University Masquers dramatic society directed by Prof. William C. Craig, director of speech activities at the school.

The club founded in 1924 has as its purposes the fostering of interest in dramatic art, the appreciation of the importance of dramatics in the college curriculum and to develop among individuals the technique of stagecraft.

The group recently joined the National Theatre Conference thus securing national recognition as a collegiate dramatic group as well as participation in other benefits of the conference.

Miss Rader graduated from Circleville high school as salutatorian of the class of '33.

MRS. MILLER IS ELECTED PIANIST

Mrs. Cliff Miller was elected pianist for the coming year by the Ebenezer Social circle instead of Mrs. James Pierce as stated in Thursday's issue of The Herald.

This Quilt is Easy to Cut

Shasta Daisy

PATTERN $100

Here is a quilt, Shasta Daisy, that is made up to the greatest part of strips of the same width and every quiltmaker knows how much that simplifies the cutting of the patches. The material can be cut in strips of the width needed and then the patches snipped off as you want them. But, aside from this technical advantage, Shasta Daisy is as lovely a quilt as the flower that inspired it. Any quiltmaker will be proud to show it as an example of her skill.

In pattern 5100 you will find the Block Chart, an illustration of the finished block in actual size, showing contrasting fabrics; accurately drawn pattern pieces; an illustration of the entire quilt; three color schemes; step-by-step directions for making the quilt, and exact yardage requirements.

To obtain this pattern send 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred) to The Herald Household Arts Dept., 124 W. Main-st., Circleville, O.

PATTERN 9215

Smart housewives who like their "at-home" frocks to be pretty and at the same time comfortable and convenient, will appreciate the ease with which this coat-like dress may be slipped on. There are no buttons to fasten, rather the belt slips through a slash at the right side of the waistline and ties with the left belt into a nice little bow at the back. And it's easy to iron, too, for it may be spread out flat on the board! Ruffles add a bit of flattery around the neck—emphasize the slenderizing surplice lines of the bodice—and give a touch of frivolity to the trim sleeve cuffs. A convenient patch pocket adorns the slim skirt.

Pattern 9215 may be ordered only in sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 32, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44. Size 36 requires 4½ yards 36 inch fabric and 2½ yards ready made ruffling.

LEAGUE HEADS OFF WAR

HEADING off a war in the Balkans is a feat for the League of Nations and a capital demonstration of what its machinery can do when the member nations really use its machinery. A place was furnished for the dispute between Yugoslavia and Hungary to be aired and for the stronger European powers to cooperate in restraining the excited passions of the unfriendly Balkan neighbors. Yugoslavia and Hungary both overplayed their hands; Yugoslavia by its wholesale deportation of Hungarians, which the Western powers considered merciless, and Hungary by attempting to justify the terrorism of which Yugoslavia complained as irredentism due to the territorial settlement in the peace treaties.

The situation is complicated by France's hookup with Yugoslavia and Italy's tie-in with Hungary. On this account they felt morally bound to extend sympathy to their respective satellites. They have been shown that such ententes may be embarrassing and dangerous, and that they may even be exposed to pressure akin to blackmail. Yugoslavia could threaten to switch from France to Germany and Hungary could threaten to implicate Italy in the protection of terrorists. But France and Italy could retaliate by quitting their minor partners cold, cementing friendship between themselves and turning their attention to an understanding with Germany. The Franco-Italian alliance system has been given a black eye.

Most gratifying is the evidence that Europe does not want war and will act swiftly to prevent it. Good counsel has been given the Balkan peoples. More can be given. The outlook will be more promising if the nations familiar with terrorism can be persuaded to act together to stamp it out. That was proposed immediately after the assassination of King Alexander but was not accepted, thus confirming the impression that these people have not been thoroughly converted from terroristic methods. Now is a good time to complete this conversion.

The British are advocating a judicial rather than a political settlement of the Yugoslav-Hungarian controversy. That is a step in the right direction.

UNAWED

OBSERVERS rather amazed at the undisturbed equanimity with which Dr. Allan Roy Dafeo, the little country doctor from the Canadian northlands, views the wonders of the metropolis. The New York skyline, which fills even the most sophisticated with awe; the Empire State Building, the whirling traffic, the subways, the elevated and all that goes to make the life of a great city that it is, are viewed with interest but not with open-eyed wonder.

And it is not improbable that Dr. Dafeo would contemplate with similar calm the Hanging Gardens of Babylon, the Pyramids of Egypt and all of the other ancient and modern wonders of the world combined. After all, he has not only seen but has assisted in the cosmic miracle through which five little girls came into this workaday world of ours and has helped them to cling desperately to a slender thread of life.

It is not to be expected that one who has played a part in such a drama would be carried away with wonder at the achievements in stone and steel wrought by the hand of man.

CAROLINE by RUTH DEWEY GROVES

CHAPTER XXXIII

When Howard had gone Caroline picked up the newspapers he had brought and tried to escape her thoughts in reading them. Her eyes strayed to the column of personal items, and there she read that Howard Dunsforth had been away on a short hunting trip. The paper dropped from her hands as her own affairs rushed in upon her mind.

That was what he had told Gwendolyn, perhaps. Or his father. In either case it was sickening that he should be compelled to lie about where he had been. Her mother's funeral—and they had to be deceitful about it!

Tears of humiliation trickled out of her eyes, although she shut them tight to keep from weeping. She was afraid, if she let herself go, that she would become hysterical, for she was completely unnerved and frightened, despite all her brave talk to Howard, and she knew it.

She was still fighting her emotions, trying to reason sensibly with herself when the telephone rang. She answered it with a faint: "Hello," and received an ingratiating: "Is this Miss Rutledge?" in reply.

"Then, as though Caroline's voice had been recognized, the other quickly resumed, "This is Gwendolyn Dunsforth. I'm so glad I reached you."

Caroline barely succeeded in suppressing a gasp of surprise. Gwendolyn seemed not to care to learn if her call was welcome. "I want to tell you," she went on, speaking rapidly but managing to introduce a note of sympathy into her voice, "that I feel for you deeply in your great loss."

Now she paused, and Caroline forced herself to murmur something about kindness.

"I don't want you to think that I'm misunderstanding," about Howard, being with you," Gwendolyn said, "although I'm sure you must think I would."

Caroline was almost too astonished to speak, and believing all that Howard had told her, she was utterly unsuspecting of Gwendolyn's motives. Why, I . . . she began in confusion, but Gwendolyn hastily cut in.

"Oh, you do misjudge me!" she exclaimed. "But Howard has told me all about it and I understand, perfectly. The next time he sees you he will have good news for you, and I do wish you every happiness," and she was waiting for her to say something. Never had words been so elusive. Her brain was whirling with exciting thoughts and she could express none of them in speech.

"Do say that you are pleased," Gwendolyn appealed to her. "Why, of course," Caroline stammered, "of course I am pleased. It's . . . it's very . . . it's beautifully generous of you, Gwendolyn!"

There was a sharp, definite click. Caroline looked blankly at the instrument in her hand. The connection had been broken with a startling abruptness.

She waited, thinking Gwendolyn might ask to have it restored. But after a while the thought that she had rung off with deliberate rudeness became a painful conviction.

As the hours passed and Caroline heard nothing more she felt a helpless prey to all sorts of apprehensions. Why hadn't Howard told her what was happening? And Gwendolyn—why was she so sweet at first and then moved to hang up like that? If only she knew where to reach Howard!

She heard her father drive up to the house, leave the sedan in the drive and come in the back door. He started on up to his room without stopping to speak to her. Suddenly she ran from the living room and called up the stairs to him. "Come and have some coffee with me, Father."

He turned and looked down at her, standing with his hand on the rail. His face was bloated, ugly. "Coffee?" he mumbled. "No, don't waste any, thanks."

Caroline shrank away. Back in the living room she flung herself into a chair and sobbed. The promise Gwendolyn had made seemed utterly false to her. She was lonely, helpless, despairing.

How late it was when the telephone rang again she did not know, but she was still downstairs and flew to answer it in the hope that Howard was calling. When she heard his voice it was as though she had been rescued from a great danger.

"I must see you," he told her in a wildly agitated voice. "May I come out, tonight, I mean."

"Please," she said. "Gwendolyn telephoned. I know something has happened! It's been terrible waiting."

"I'll be right out. I know." It seemed to her ages before she opened the door to him. They did not speak until they were in the living room and she had pulled the sliding doors to, shutting out their voices from the hall.

"What did Gwen say?" Howard demanded even before he had said a word in greeting.

"I think she tricked me," Caroline told him. "She said she understood your being with me at another's funeral, and I did not deny that you were. Then she said you would have good news for me when I saw you again. She wished me happiness. Oh, tell me, what did she mean? She hung up, slammed the receiver up, when I said she was generous."

Howard laughed, a harsh, grating sound. "She tricked you, all right," he said furiously. "Someone told her that my hunting trip was a blind—that's where I said I was—and she taxed me with it. I wouldn't answer and she said she'd get the truth. I didn't guess what she was up to until it was too late and she had telephoned you. I'd have come sooner, but we had it out then and there. She's leaving for Reno, right away."

Caroline's eyes searched his face for some explanation of his anger. "But isn't that what you've been wanting her to do?" she asked.

"Not this way. She's sore. Dad will be wild."

"But she's giving us our happiness, Howard. Doesn't that matter above all else?" Caroline expostulated.

"Not if Dad shuts down on me," he retorted. "Oh, for heaven's sake, Caroline, don't be provincial about it. We must have money. You've seen that! I'd do anything rather than have you end your life in poverty."

Caroline drew back from him. "You could support us, if you made up your mind to," she said firmly. "I'd help. In better times I can't see a good position anywhere."

"Darling, nothing but rot. You've taken me as I am. You know what my life's been. You told me once I'd be surprised if I attempted to earn my living. Can I help it if I was born with a silver spoon in my mouth? I haven't learned how to work. How can I compete with men who have? You might be fair to me."

"Well," Caroline sighed. "What can we do? I think it was decent of Gwen to give you up. Only—why should she mind all at once?"

"It was the lie about the hunting trip. Said it let her in for a good laugh from some of her bum friends."

"But why did you lie to her?" "You know that. Gwen has a way of throwing nasty remarks about the past. I didn't want to give her anything so specific as that to talk about."

He felt that his explanation was unsatisfactory, but he said no more about it.

Caroline looked at him with a sudden deep shadow in her eyes. "I won't hold you, Howard," she said tensely, "if it's going to cost you more than you care to pay."

He took her fiercely by the shoulders. "That kind of talk is cruel," he said. "Before I'd lose you, Caroline, I'd let the whole world go to blazes!"

His arms swept round her thin, dark-clad body and he held her with a hunger that was suffocating.

When she could, she pulled away from him. "Then do stop your worrying," she said. "Fathers aren't all ogres. And think! We can really plan things now—for the future. Oh, Howard, I can't help being just a little happy even if it hasn't happened as you wanted it to," she added wistfully.

Howard tried to appear less concerned than he had been. But it was not until the following day that his mind was really put at rest. And then it was Gwendolyn who did it. She had packed and was ready, before he left the house, to drive to the station. At the last moment she sent a maid to ask him to come to her room.

She looked very modish in a tweed traveling costume but her figure had grown somewhat heavy and her face had lost the delicacy of youth without taking on the finer, stronger molding of character. She used make-up lavishly and a bit carelessly at times. Today she looked hard.

"I meant to go and let you stew about your dad," she said directly to Howard. "But I'm in the same boat and you know it. Papa's going to half kill me as it is, and if I made a scandal he would. Otherwise, believe me, I'd make you and that prissy Caroline Rutledge come down off your high horses."

Howard stared at her, weighing her words. "What's on your mind, exactly, Gwen?" he asked quietly.

"I want to marry Freddy Thornton, that's what," she answered defiantly. "He's the only boy I've ever loved, and he's crazy about me. And you needn't look at me like that. After the way you've neglected me you might have expected I'd have affairs all over the town. I wish I could make you suffer for it, but I want a little happiness myself. Freddy's got some money, and if Papa doesn't disown me we'll have enough to travel, Freddy and me. Get out of this lousy town. I'm sick of it and that grand dame stuff your mother is always handing to me."

She paused and grabbed up a handbag and gloves.

"Well," Howard said, still restraining the elation he was beginning to feel. "What do you want me to do about it?"

"I want you to keep your mouth shut. If you say one word about me and Freddy to my father I'll shoot the whole works about you and Caroline."

"It's a bargain," Howard agreed. "Freddy's the best of the lot of your rotten friends. I hope you'll be happy with him."

She glanced at her wrist-watch. "You can drive me to the station," she said. "It's time to go. I'll write to my folks. You can just say you didn't know anything about it. If Papa thought we'd settled it like this."

She opened her mouth to apply more rouge to her lips and left her remark unfinished.

At the station, just before she boarded the train, Howard gave her a peck on each cheek and told her to remember that until she got her decree she was still his wife and he'd expect her to behave herself. She waved at him from the platform, and Howard wondered if he hadn't wasted a lot of time in freeing from her his wish to be free. Maybe not, he reflected on his way to the factory. If she'd found out about Caroline before she'd made up her mind to marry Freddy she'd have ruined him. Little hellcat.

He drove to the factory in high spirits, but when he entered his father's office he had assumed an air of great and tragic unhappiness.

"What the devil's the matter with you?" Mr. Dunsforth senior asked, looking up from a batch of papers over which he had been anxiously bent.

"She's gone, Dad!" Howard exclaimed frantically.

"Who's gone?" "Gwen. She left for Reno this morning."

Henry Dunsforth shot half way out of his chair. "Why didn't you stop her, you blooming idiot!" he yelled.

"Stop her!" Howard laughed bitterly. "Try and do it!"

Henry flopped back in his chair. "This is bad. Bad," he groaned. "Hoffmann will raise the devil, and it's all your fault, you young whelp," he added, turning a suddenly blazing countenance on his son. "You drove her to it. You never tried to understand her."

Lung Infection, Ignored, Often Has Serious Results

Body Absorbs Poisons Formed, Causing Fever and Severe Pains in Chest

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
United States senator from New York
Former Commissioner of Health,
New York City

ANY PART of the body, including the lungs and other organs of the body, is susceptible to infection and the accumulation of pus. "Empyema" is the name given to a condition in which pus accumulates within the lining of the chest cavity. As a rule, it can be traced to pneumonia, pleurisy, bronchitis or other infection within the body. Often it may follow a neglected cold.

Dr. Copeland

The germs of the infection cause pus to form, and this accumulates in the lung cavity. The patient appears exceedingly ill and pale and has great difficulty in breathing. As a rule, there is a high fever, rising and falling during the day. This type of fever is often spoken of as "septic temperature" and results from the absorption of poisons developing in the pus formed within the body.

Often Overlooked
Unfortunately, the disease is often overlooked. In many instances it could be prevented if proper and immediate measures of relief were taken.

During the early stages of the ailment the victim has difficulty in breathing and complains of pain in the chest. The symptoms are so pronounced as to demand attention.

In children the pain may be so severe as to prevent sleep and cause extreme restlessness and discomfort. If the true nature of the trouble is overlooked, the disease progresses and soon there is an excessive accumulation of pus. This leads to increasing and ultimately marked pressure on the lungs.

If you are at all in doubt a physician should be consulted. At times an X-ray examination may be advisable to rule out some other affliction.

When the diagnosis is made the physician may resort to that method of treatment known as "tapping." Here a long needle is passed through the skin into the area of the chest where it is suspected the empyema is located. If pus is present it can be withdrawn through the needle.

Simple Matter

If this procedure is advised do not become alarmed. It is of great benefit and in the hands of a competent surgeon is really a simple matter. In addition to its value in confirming the nature of the trouble, it has positive curative value in that large amounts of pus can be withdrawn from the diseased area. This lowers the fever and hastens convalescence.

Of course, a simple tap is not always sufficient to effect cure. In more advanced cases it may be necessary to remove the patient to a hospital and operate more extensively. The operation consists of providing adequate drainage and removal of the accumulated pus.

Delay is harmful because prolonged persistence of empyema may lead to serious complications. For example, the pus may extend to various parts of the lung. These new areas are hard to find and may become separated from the main infection. This leads to the formation of numerous abscesses. Surgery in these cases is more difficult and convalescence is often prolonged and stormy.

Answers to Health Queries

Sister. Q.—What can be done to avoid bed sores and other minor disturbances when caring for a patient who is bedridden?

A.—Daily care and attention will do much to add to the comfort of the patient. For full particulars send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.

Mother. Q.—My little girl of three seems active and well but lacks appetite. What shall I do to encourage her to eat?

A.—See that her diet is as varied as possible. Keep her system clear. For full particulars send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.

Annual Rotary-Ann Fete Addressed by P.E. Thomas

A fine turkey dinner followed from Pleasant Valley made the annual Rotary-Ann party held in the basement of St. Joseph's church Thursday evening one of the most successful in the club's history. Choosing as a subject "Crime and Politics" Warden Thomas told of the difficulties of law enforcement in many communities of the country on account of underworld organizations and the "crooked" politicians who cater to the criminals.

LAW'S HANDS TIED
"Politicians in many cities encourage law breaking," he said, "for the criminals pay for protection and the law enforcing officers have their hands tied and are unable to fulfill their duties. This condition exists in many cities," he continued, "and is a difficult situation to correct under the present method of city government."

He then explained the steps leading from crime to the penitentiary and the methods used by organized criminals to obtain pardons for prisoners.

"I have made many enemies," stated the warden, "because I have been honest, and don't believe in giving pardons to any and everyone. My opponents say I have no cooperation in the penitentiary and they have used all kinds of underhand methods to cause me trouble just for this reason.

"The only way to correct the conditions in the cities where crime protection exists is to take local law enforcing officers from under local influence so that the politicians can't use their offices as a cloak for their own betterment," he concluded. Before the meeting closed Warden Thomas answered a number of questions from his listeners.

"FAMILY" PARTY
After the talk by Warden Thomas a trip to Pleasant Valley was made where "Uncle" Ezra Martin and his happy family were gathered in the parlor for an hour's entertainment.

In their customary way "Uncle" Ezra, Ma, Sally, Horace and all the other members of the family kept the audience in good humor with their singing, jokes, family arguments and what not which was thoroughly enjoyed.

The committee headed by Fred C. Clark, who acted as master of ceremonies, and Dr. E. S. Shane and John A. Ryan, was highly complimented for its fine program as were the ladies of the church who prepared the dinner.

bile, waited patiently for the opening of the bank.

F. W. Kell, the assistant cashier, entered the bank at the start of the day's business and was met by the two bandits, one of them masked with a white handkerchief, and threatened with revolvers.

The bandits forced Kell to open the vault. While he was doing so, Arthur Kemch, the bank's cashier, entered, and he also was ordered to "stick 'em up."

After the vault was opened, the two employees were forced to lie on the floor while one of the bandits scooped all the cash in sight from the vault. Kell and Kemch were then locked in the vault and the three bandits escaped in their waiting car.

Soon afterwards Miss Alma Soldan, bank stenographer, entered the place and released the two imprisoned men and the alarm was broadcast by state highway patrol and city police radio stations.

C. OF C. AGAINST NRA CONTINUANCE

COLUMBUS, Dec. 14.—The Ohio Chamber of Commerce in meeting here Wednesday went on record as opposing reenactment of the National Industrial Recovery act when it expires next June 16.

The Chamber requested however that a new industrial control measure be enacted permitting each industry to formulate and put into effect rules of fair competition.

AS A CEREAL

OR IN COOKING

it's FINE either way!

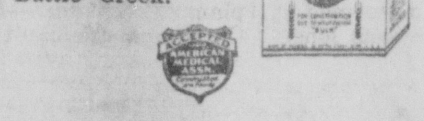

It's so handy to have a package of Kellogg's ALL-BRAN in the kitchen. Serve it as a cereal. Use it also as a wholesome ingredient in your muffins, breads, omelets, waffles, etc.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN supplies "bulk" to aid regular habits. ALL-BRAN is also rich in vitamin B, as well as iron, an element of the blood.

Two tablespoonfuls daily will correct common constipation, due to insufficient bulk in the diet. In severe cases, with each meal. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.

The "bulk" of ALL-BRAN does not break down during digestion as does that of leafy vegetables, and is therefore more effective for furnishing the needed "bulk." It is a delicious laxative food... far better than patent medicines.

Get the red-and-green package at your grocer's. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

BREAD EXEMPTION SAVES $100,000

COLUMBUS, Dec. 14.—Exemption of bread from the retail sales tax saved Ohio bakers and the consuming public at least $100,000, it was estimated today.

Frank Noyes, secretary of the Ohio Bakers association, said that many bakeries would have made smaller loaves of bread to evade the tax if bread had been included. The necessary changes in equipment would have caused an outlay of $100,000 at least, he said.

About This And That

BY THE SECOND GUESSER

MANDERS AGAIN

Here's a story of a football player who made only three touchdowns during a football season but regardless led the scorers in his league—Jack Manders of Minnesota. This is probably a record. He had six points over Dutch Clark, great Detroit quarterback. Manders missed only one try for extra point during the season and he made good on all but two field goal attempts.

A REAL RECORD

"Automatic Jack" as he is called by his teammates the Chicago Bears topped the professional league by booting 31 points after touchdowns and ten field goals during the year. This is probably a record. He had six points over Dutch Clark, great Detroit quarterback. Manders missed only one try for extra point during the season and he made good on all but two field goal attempts.

WHAT OF ROBINSON

Although Grantland Rice named Shottwell, Pittsburgh center, on Colliers All-American you can't make local followers of the Irish of Notre Dame believe the Pitt pivot man is better than Jack Robinson—Bob Pickens and Milt Friedman saw the Pitt-Notre Dame game and are emphatic that Robinson laid Shottwell back on his heels many, many times—Doc Hartwig, Pitt captain and guard, deserved the first team, both believed, however—Ohio State's publicity directors apparently don't carry power where it belongs because the Bucks were "Out in the Cold Again" with the publication of Collier's team—Next year is another one.

Pounds of firm healthy flesh instead of bare scraggy bones! New vigor, vim and energy instead of tired listlessness! Steady, quiet nerves! That is what thousands of people are getting through scientific latest discovery—the Vitamins of Cod Liver Oil concentrated in little sugar coated tablets without any of its bitter fatty taste or smell. McCoys' Cod Liver Oil Tablets, they're called! "Cod Liver Oil in Tablets", and they're simply weak wonders. A little boy of 3, said: "I was weak and thin, but after I took just one bottle of McCoys' Cod Liver Oil Tablets, I'm strong and healthy now." A little girl of 10, said: "I was weak and thin, but after I took just one bottle of McCoys' Cod Liver Oil Tablets, I'm strong and healthy now." A young mother who could not get to sleep after baby came got all her health back and gained 10 lbs. in less than a month.

Yet simply must try McCoys' at once. Remember if you don't gain at least 10 lbs. of firm healthy flesh in a month get your money back. Demand and get McCoys'—the original and genuine Cod Liver Oil Tablets approved by Good Housekeeping Institute. Refuse all substitutes. Insist on the original McCoys'—there are none better.

Collier's All-American Forgets Ohio State Team

NEW YORK, Dec. 14.—Selections for Collier's All-American football team, which is a perpetuation of the original All-America founded by Walter Camp 50 years ago, were announced today. The players chosen are:

Ends: Hutson, Alabama; Larson, Minnesota.
Tackles: Lee, Alabama; Reynolds, Stanford.
Guards: Barclay, N. Carolina; Bevan, Minnesota.
Center: Shottwell, Pittsburgh.
Quarterback: Grayson, Stanford.
Halfbacks: Wallace, Rice; Berries, Navy.
Fullback: Lund, Minnesota.

In awarding the Walter Camp gold footballs to these players, the judges declare that "a leading feature of this year's campaign was the wide spread of football talent through every section of the country, although there was a slight decline among the headliners in line play, five of the eight sections reporting no tackle quite up to All-America consideration."

MINNESOTA GETS TRIO
The completed team has players from seven colleges. Minnesota's fast, crunching team gets three places, Alabama lands two line-men, and Stanford has a tackle and the quarterback. Sectionally, the Eastern colleges are represented by only two places, occupied by representatives of Pittsburgh and Navy; the South has four players; the mid-West, three Minnesota men; the Pacific Coast, two players from Stanford.

Southern football comes to the forefront more prominently than ever before in the history of the Walter Camp awards.

Larson of Minnesota is the only man on this year's team whose name appeared on last year's list. The closest battle was in the backfield, where twelve candidates ran neck and neck for only four places. Berwanger of Chicago is adjudged to have been "the star all-around halfback of all the lot, until injured before the Ohio State game." Purvis of Purdue is another star who suffered the same hard luck.

FAST CONTEST ASSURED FANS IN CAGE FRAY

Academy Bringing Good Team Here; Club to Play Bliss Christmas Night.

An interesting basketball game is certain to be dished out to cage fans this evening when Columbus Academy's fast team comes here to tangle with the Red and Black quintet.

The evening's festivities begin at 7:30 when the reserve teams of the two schools tangle in a preliminary.

The major game will get underway about 8:15 with Johnny Heiskell handling the whistle.

LINEUP SET
Coach Herberholz is almost certain to stick to his starting lineup which worked so well against Williamsport. That is Henry and Kirwin at forwards, Grant at center and Speckman and John Jenkins at guards. There are several capable subs hanging around the edges ready for action.

Academy has a strong team that will surely test the mettle of the Tiger crew.

CLUB BOOKS BLISS
Judy Gordon who is managing the C. A. C. club announced today that Elias college with a mighty strong team will provide opposition for the Athletic club Christmas night, the date of the initial engagement for the locals.

The club team is lining up in nice style and has been doing a lot of practicing. Last night with Merriman nor Hegele at practice the lineup was Barnes at center, Steele and Parks at forwards and Purcell and Gordon at guards. Tubby Vrebone will be here to perform with the Club team during the holidays.

RESCUE WORKERS HUNT IN RUINS

LIVERPOOL, Eng., Dec. 14.—Rescue workers today searched the wreckage of the St. Clements school for possible victims of Wednesday night's floor collapse, in which 300 persons, mostly children and their mothers, were injured.

None was reported missing, but authorities took no chances of leaving victims in the wreckage.

Some of the injured were so gravely hurt it was feared they may die. Many suffered from shock as the first floor gave way, dropping the victims 20 feet to the ground floor during a concert which had attracted 500 to the building.

CONGRESS MAY CONTROL HUGE CHAIN SYSTEM

Stores Doing Business of Nearly 11 Billions, Congress Is Informed.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14.—The giant chain store empire whose phenomenal growth has loomed like an octopus to the independent storekeeper, labyrinthine the country and collecting $10,740,385,208 in sales in 1929, is going to be cited to the new congress for possible government regulation.

MONOPOLY FEARED

Competition among the various chain store systems (there were 7,061 of them in 1929 operating 159,638 stores, or about 10 percent of all the retail stores in the country) supplemented by that of the independent stores, "would seem to negative monopoly by any individual chain," the commission said, but added this:

"It is possible that a monopolistic condition might be established in a given section of the country and not for the country as a whole."

Under the principles of the supreme court, the report said, a concern may do all the business in its field and have no competition without infringing the Sherman law. The commission said the Sherman law's broad prohibition against monopoly has been reduced by court interpretation "to mean that only actual, as distinguished from potential, monopoly, is unlawful, and that the mere possession of power in the absence of overt acts indicating an illegal use thereof, is not a violation of this statute."

Citing the supreme court's decisions in the International Harvester co., and the U. S. Steel corp. cases, the commission stated:

"Under the principles of these decisions, if there should develop one gigantic all-inclusive chain store system for each line of distribution, its status as an unlawful monopoly could be attacked only to the extent it had violated the law as a means of attaining monopoly, and exercised its monopolistic power contrary to law. The situation may call for recon-

consideration by congress of the public policy involved in the monopoly section of the Sherman law."

FURTHER STUDY

Chain store systems in the grocery group were absolved of violating the anti-trust laws in affecting consolidations but further study of this question as it affects the drug, confectionery, furniture and variety groups of chain stores is being made.

NO PRIVACY CLAIMS ACTRESS IN ACTION

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 14.—From the time she married Paul Ames, in Chicago Nov. 30 until she separated from him 12 days later in Hollywood, June Knight, pretty screen star, didn't have "one minute's privacy" with her husband, the actress alleged in a divorce complaint today.

Murray Stern, close friend of Ames, was a constant companion of the newlyweds, Miss Knight declared in her complaint. She also charged that Ames was sullen and morose and allowed his family to influence him. Stern served as secretary to Ames, Miss Knight said. His home is in New York.

Alimony in the sum of $1,200 per month is sought by Miss Knight, in addition to $5,000 for her attorneys.

CAUCUS OF OHIO'S LEADERS DELAYED

COLUMBUS, Dec. 14.—The caucus of the 18 Ohio Democratic congressmen which was to have taken place here Thursday was called off by Congressman A. P. Lamneck, (D) of Columbus because of the inability of many representatives to attend it.

"A great many of them," Lamneck said, "are attending committee meetings in Washington and others were held back by the icy roads."

Lamneck declared that he planned to go to Washington Sunday and that the caucus may be held there next week or the week after Christmas. The purpose of the meeting was to select Ohio's choice for the speakership and draft the stand of the state's delegation in Congress on important legislation scheduled to come before the next session of the national law-making body.

ACTION TAKEN

The law says it must not exceed 3 per cent of the tax they collect, but it is at the discretion of the commission to fix it at that point or below.

Four lithographing houses are at work on the printing of the first 550,000,000 sales tax receipts in denominations of one, two, three, six, nine, twelve, fifteen, thirty and sixty cents, $1.50 and $3 for which the state is paying $69,000.

This supply was expected to last Ohio merchants for 60 days. It will take the lithographers two weeks to finish the initial order and another two weeks for the tax commission to distribute the receipts to the 88 county treasurers.

Successful bidders on the printing of tax receipts were the Columbian Bank Note Co., Chicago, 305 million receipts; Reserve Lithographing Co., Cleveland, 205 million receipts; Strobridge Lithographing Co., Cincinnati, 35 million receipts and the Warner P. Simpson Co., Columbus, 11 million receipts.

DIFFERENT COLORS

Each receipt will be 1 3-8 by 3 inches, perforated down the middle, so the dealer may easily tear it in two, giving the buyer half and retaining half when a sale is made. Each denomination will be on a different colored stock.

FIRE BLAMED ON CIGARET

27 Bodies Have Now Been Recovered From Burned Lansing, Mich., Hotel.

LANSING, Mich., Dec. 14.—A carelessly dropped cigarette in the suite of the hotel manager and delayed alarm to the fire department, were blamed for the Kerns hotel fire disaster, today, as a ninth charred-body was recovered from the ruins where at least 50 are believed to have perished.

The exact toll of the flames which destroyed the old wooden-floored hotel early Tuesday morning, remained uncertain today and probably will never be known.

Twenty-seven bodies have been recovered.

An investigating board headed by Edward M. Welch, deputy state fire marshal, reported last night that the fire had been traced to its source in the suite of David Monroe, manager of the hotel who perished in the flames; that 15 or 20 minutes elapsed between the time smoke was first discovered in the hotel, and the sending of the alarm; that drinking parties "throughout the building" preceded the blaze; and that the fire department was handicapped by posse only one rescue net.

Unable to raise enough ladders to reach the scores of trapped victims who crowded to the windows, the firemen were forced to watch the hotel guests jump to death or serious injury on the pavements or in icy Grand river which flowed past the rear of the building.

The story uncovered by the investigating board was a story of delay, followed by sudden panic as it was realized that scores of the sleeping guests were trapped.

The investigators blamed the heavy loss of life on the fact that hotel employees wasted valuable time in trying to rescue Monroe, who was probably dead when the flames were first discovered.

TWO UNIQUE WOMEN

SALE LAKE CITY, Utah.—Col. Roscoe Turner gained worldwide fame during the recent London-to-Melbourne air races. His wife has a claim to fame also, she explained here on her way to Hollywood from London with Miss Gladys Lyon.

ELDERLY MAN ADMITS DEATH OF CHILD, TEN

Murder Which Had Been Mystery Since 1928 Cleared Up By Confession.

NEW YORK, Dec. 14.—In homicide court today an elderly, weak, little man, the father of six children, was to hear himself accused of one of the most heinous crimes on record.

The crime, a baffling mystery for more than a decade, was the murder of a ten-year-old daughter of a poor, Irish family.

On June 4, 1928, the child, an unusually pretty youngster, left her home in company with a mysterious man who described himself as "Frank Howard", and who had made the acquaintance of the Budd family on the pretense of obtaining a job for Grace's brother, Edward Budd.

"Howard" told the girl's mother he was going to take her to a picnic in the Bronx.

OUTSTANDING MYSTERY

The family never saw Grace or "Frank Howard" again after that day and the child's disappearance became an outstanding police mystery, comparable in many respects to the Lindbergh case, a crime which appeared insoluble — until the sudden and dramatic arrest yesterday of Albert Fish, a 65-year-old house painter and "farmer."

Fish was arrested as the man, who had been sending strange notes to the Budd family taunting them on their failure to find their daughter, and within a few hours of his arrest the old man, according to the authorities, had made a complete confession.

He not only admitted that he was the mysterious "Frank Howard" who had kidnaped little Grace, but he also told police he had murdered the girl on the same day she left her home, giving details so revolting in character that hardened detectives at first were loath to credit them.

Then he took the police to an abandoned house in Westchester, where he said he slew the girl, and hacked her body into pieces and buried them in the back yard.

Last night, police laborers digging at a spot pointed out by Fish, found the skull of a ten-year-old child. Today they will dig for the remaining parts of the body at spots where Fish said he buried them.

"It was my lust for blood that made me do it," he said.

In this manner, the police declared, Fish wound up his confession.

PLANNED CRIME

According to the confession, the child's slayer planned the crime days in advance of his departure from the Budd house with little Grace and checked a bundle containing a saw and a meat cleaver at a nearby store before calling on the family.

It was with these, according to the confession, that the child's body was dismembered after she had been brutally attacked and choked to death.

GRAND CHAMPION STEER PURCHASED BY KROGER STORES

INTERNATIONAL GRAND CHAMPION bought by the Kroger Grocery & Baking Co.
TO BE DONATED TO CHILDREN'S CHARITIES

This photo shows Campus Idol, a 1,144-pound steer, bought by The Kroger Grocery and Baking Company after it had won the grand championship at the International Livestock Exposition held last week at Chicago. This steer will be slaughtered and the meat distributed immediately to orphans in the mid-west section of the country.

The company also purchased a herd of other prize-winning cattle, and these are being rushed to various branches where they will be slaughtered and the meat distributed to Kroger stores.

Standing back of the steer, from left to right, are Walter Biggar, of Scotland, judge of the show for the last ten years and who proclaimed Campus Idol the best steer of all-time; S. A. Douglas, director of meat sales for the Kroger company; A. J. Schlinkert, general manager of meat merchandising for the concern; James McKinney, buyer for the company, and Prof. H. H. Kildee, dean of agriculture at Iowa State College, under whose direction the champion was raised.

Heroes

Times have changed for Government agents.

During the prohibition era, a few years ago, the shooting of a Government sleuth was greeted with public apathy or ill-concealed condemnation.

But today, under the vigorous crime suppression policy of Homer Cummings, the wounding or death in action of these men is a matter of headline interest and nationwide sympathy.

From being generally despised enforcers of an unpopular law, Government agents have become heroic destroyers of marauding thugs and outlaws.

This change in public attitude toward federal crime detectors is one of the notable achievements of the New Deal. Through it Attorney General Homer Cummings has done much to rehabilitate the long-misunderstood reputation of the Department of Justice and its Bureau of Investigation.

Ohio commercial car owners have been warned by Registrar Frank West of the Motor Vehicles Bureau that many of them will be without 1935 license tags during the first few weeks of the coming year unless there is a large increase in the number of truck applications being received daily at the Bureau.

Slowness of truck owners in applying for new auto tags will result in such a rush for tags during the last few days of the year that the bureau will be unable to handle all expeditiously, Registrar West said. No extension in time will be granted for securing tags, the Registrar also announced.

Only 5,000 truck applications have out of approximately 150,000 have to date been received by the Bureau. Likewise only 1,000 trailer applications have been received, while there are 60,000 such vehicles in the state.

Applications are received by deputy registrar and forwarded to Columbus headquarters of the Motor Vehicles Bureau, from which the commercial tags are mailed direct to owners.

In urging commercial car owners to register early for 1935 tags, West pointed out the various steps through which every application must go before tags are issued.

Every truck application must be checked, and if stamped, received and shipped. Experience and handling license plates in other years shows that many owners who apply for commercial tags after December 20, do not receive them until during the first week of the new year.

ASHVILLE'S TAX RATE DECREASED

The tentative tax rate for Asheville corporation for 1935 has been fixed at $17, a decrease of 80 cents over the present rate. The budget as made up by council asked for $4,000 and the budget commission comprised of Treasurer Earl Hoffmann, Auditor Cliff White and Prosecutor Ray Davis were able to allow almost the entire amount. In the campaign for the bond issue last fall the promise was made that the tax rate would not be increased; this promise has been fulfilled.

General Electric All-Wave Radio

IMAGINE yourself and family seated in the living room of your home—the entire group wide-eyed with curiosity.

The stage is set. Walk across the floor. Remove the concealing cover from an object in the corner. Begin twirling the dial of a beautiful new General Electric all-wave radio.

Roam to the other side of the world and back again. Hear the quaint Christmas ceremonies in foreign countries. Race down to Australia for a view of Christmas eve in that interesting land. Tune in amateurs, police calls, aircraft messages.

Fun, isn't it? But just a minute. You've forgotten something. You haven't yet purchased your new all-wave General Electric.

At your earliest convenience see the entire line of brilliant new radios. You'll like the beautiful cabinets in many table and console models. You'll thrill to the unmatched fidelity of General Electric tone. You'll find just the set to suit your taste—offered at a price you'll hardly believe possible.

WING CLUB ENJOYS CHRISTMAS DINNER

Mrs. Orville Beers of Circleville, who entertained the members of her sewing club at their annual Christmas dinner at her home Thursday.

A beautifully lighted and decorated Christmas tree was an attraction in the room where the guests were assembled, and the tables for the turkey dinner at 12:30 o'clock were handsomely appointed with Christmas colors and symbols.

Covers were laid for Mrs. William Anderson and Miss Ruth Peters, guests of the club, Mrs. A. Dunkle, Mrs. Margaret Cullums, Mrs. B. F. Courtwright, Mrs. R. T. Ston, Miss Helen Liston, Mrs. H. Morris, Mrs. Emerson Martin, Miss Ida Hoffman, Mrs. William Weiler, Miss Mary Miller, Mrs. G. M. Newton, Mrs. H. Warner, Mrs. John Heffner, and Mrs. Stanley Glick.

Sewing was enjoyed after the dinner and the exchange of gifts followed a merry hour.

The January meeting of the club will be at the home of Miss A. Hoffman, E. Union-st.

Mrs. Bishop Given and daughter, Miss Ann, S. Court-st., have returned from a visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. T. Ethridge of Union City, Tenn.

Household Arts

Here is a quilt, Shasta Daisy, that is made up to the greatest part of strips of the same width, and every quiltmaker knows how much that simplifies the cutting of the patches. The material can be cut in strips of the width needed and then the patches snipped off as you want them. But, aside from this technical advantage, Shasta Daisy is as lovely a quilt as the flower that inspired it. Any quiltmaker will be proud to show it as an example of her skill.

In pattern 5100 you will find the Block Chart, an illustration of the finished block in actual size, showing contrasting fabrics; accurately drawn pattern pieces; an illustration of the entire quilt; three color schemes; step-by-step directions for making the quilt, and exact yardage requirements.

To obtain this pattern send 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred) to The Herald Household Arts Dept., 124 W. Main-st., Circleville, O.

PATTERN 9215

Smart housewives who like their "at-home" frocks to be pretty and at the same time comfortable and convenient, will appreciate the ease with which this coat-like dress may be slipped on. There are no buttons to fasten, rather the belt slips through a slash at the right side of the waistline and ties with the left belt into a nice little bow at the back. And it's easy to iron, too, for it may be spread out flat on the board! Ruffles add a bit of flattery around the neck—emphasize the slenderizing surplus lines of the bodice—and give a touch of frivolity to the trim sleeve cuffs. A convenient patch pocket adorns the slim skirt.

Pattern 9215 may be ordered only in sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 22, 24, 26, 28, 30, 32, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48, 50. Size 36 requires 47 yards 36 inch fabric and 21 yards ready made ruffling. Send FIFTEEN CENTS in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for EACH MARIAN MARTIN pattern. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, the STYLE NUMBER and SIZE of each pattern.

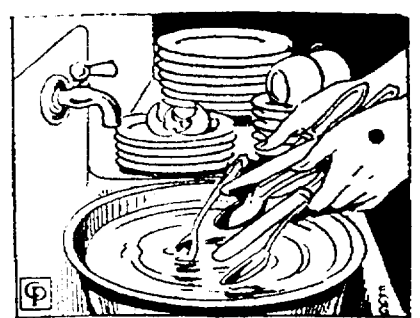

Do not miss our WINTER PATTERN BOOK of smart, easy-to-make clothes designed by our style authority, MARIAN MARTIN. Styles for every age and all occasions. PRICE OF BOOK FIFTEEN CENTS. BOOK AND PATTERN TOGETHER TWENTY-FIVE CENTS.

Send your order to The Herald Pattern Department, 124 W. Main-st., Circleville, O.

and Politics" Warden Thomas told of the difficulties of law enforcement in many communities of the country on account of underworld organizations and the "crooked" politicians who cater to the criminals.

LAW'S HANDS TIED
"Politicians in many cities encourage law breaking," he said, "for the criminal pay for protection and the law enforcing officers are unable to fulfill their duties. This condition exists in many cities," he continued, "and is a difficult situation to correct under the present method of city government."

He then explained the steps leading from crime to the penitentiary and the methods used by organized criminals to obtain pardons for prisoners.

"I have made many enemies," stated the warden, "because I have been honest, and don't believe in giving pardon to any and everyone. My opponents say I have no cooperation in the penitentiary and they have used all kinds of underhand methods to cause me trouble just for this reason. "The only way to correct the conditions in the cities where crime protection exists is to take local law enforcing officers from under local influence so that the politicians can't use their offices as a cloak for their own betterment," he concluded. Before the meeting closed Warden Thomas answered a number of questions from his listeners.

"FAMILY" PARTY
After the talk by Warden Thomas a trip to Pleasant Valley was made where "Uncle" Ezra Martin and his happy family were gathered in the parlor for an hour's entertainment.

In their customary way "Uncle" Ezra, Ma, Sally, Horace and all the other members of the family kept the audience in good humor with their singing, jokes, family arguments and what not which was thoroughly enjoyed.

The committee headed by Fred C. Clark, who acted as master of ceremonies, and Dr. E. S. Shane and John A. Ryan, was highly complimented for its fine program as were the ladies of the church who prepared the dinner.

bile, waited patiently for the opening of the bank.

F. W. Keil, the assistant cashier, entered the bank at the start of the day's business and was met by the two bandits, one of them masked with a white handkerchief, and threatened with revolvers.

The bandits forced Keil to open the vault. While he was doing so, Arthur Kemch, the bank's cashier, entered, and he also was ordered to "stick 'em up."

After the vault was opened, the two employees were forced to lie on the floor while one of the bandits scooped all the cash in sight from the vault. Keil and Kemch were then locked in the vault and the three bandits escaped in their waiting car.

Soon afterwards Miss Alma Soldan, bank stenographer, entered the place and released the two imprisoned men and the alarm was broadcast by state highway patrol and city police radio stations.

C. OF C. AGAINST NRA CONTINUANCE

COLUMBUS, Dec. 14.—The Ohio Chamber of Commerce in meeting here Wednesday went on record as opposing reenactment of the National Industrial Recovery act when it expires next June 16.

The Chamber requested however that a new industrial control measure be enacted permitting each industry to formulate and put into effect rules of fair competition.

AS A CEREAL

OR IN COOKING

it's FINE either way!

It's so handy to have a package of Kellogg's All-Brans in the kitchen. Serve it as a cereal. Use it also as a wholesome ingredient in your muffins, breads, omelets, waffles, etc.

Kellogg's All-Brans supplies "bulk" to aid regular habits. All-Brans is also rich in vitamin B, as well as iron, an element of the blood.

Two tablespoonfuls daily will correct common constipation, due to insufficient bulk in the diet. In severe cases, with each meal. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.

The "bulk" of All-Brans does not break down during digestion as does that of leafy vegetables, and is therefore more effective for furnishing the needed "bulk." It is a delicious laxative food . . . far better than patent medicines.

Get the red and green package at your grocer's. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

BREAD EXEMPTION SAVES $100,000

COLUMBUS, Dec. 14.—Exemption of bread from the retail sales tax saved Ohio bakers and the consuming public at least $100,000, it was estimated today.

Frank Noyes, secretary of the Ohio Bakers' association, said that many bakeries would have made smaller loaves of bread to evade the tax if bread had been included. The necessary changes in equipment would have caused an outlay of $100,000 at least, he said.

RESCUE WORKERS
HUNT IN RUINS

LIVERPOOL, Eng., Dec. 14.—Rescue workers today searched wreckage of the St. Clements school for possible victims of Wednesday night's floor collapse, in which 300 persons, mostly children and their mothers, were injured.

None was reported missing, but authorities took no chances of leaving victims in the wreckage. Some of the injured were so gravely hurt it was feared they may die. Many suffered from shock as the first floor gave way, dropping the victims 20 feet to the ground floor during a concert which had attracted 500 to the building.

CONGRESS MAY CONTROL HUGE CHAIN SYSTEM

Stores Doing Business of Nearly 11 Billions, Congress Is Informed.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14.—The giant chain store empire whose phenomenal growth has loomed like an octopus to the independent storekeeper, labyrinthine the country and collecting $10,740,385,208 in sales in 1929, is going to be cited to the new congress for possible government regulation.

MONOPOLY FEARED

Competition among the various chain store systems there were 7,061 of them in 1929 operating 159,638 stores, or about 10 percent of all the retail stores in the country) supplemented by that of the independent stores, "would seem to negative monopoly by any individual chain," the commission said, but added this:

"It is possible that a monopolistic condition might be established in a given section of the country and not for the country as a whole."

Under the principles of the supreme court, the report said, a concern may do all the business in its field and have no competition without infringing the Sherman law. The commission said the Sherman law's broad prohibition against monopoly has been reduced by court interpretation "to mean that only actual, as distinguished from potential, monopoly, is unlawful, and that the mere possession of power in the absence of overt acts indicating an illegal use thereof, is not a violation of this statute."

"Citing the supreme court's decisions in the International Harvester co., and the U. S. Steel corp. cases, the commission stated:

"Under the principles of these decisions, if there should develop one gigantic all-inclusive chain store system for each line of distribution, its status as an unlawful monopoly could be attacked only to the extent it had violated the law as a means of attaining monopoly, and exercised its monopolistic power contrary to law. The situation may call for recon-

publication by congress of the public policy involved in the monopoly section of the Sherman law."

FURTHER STUDY

Chain store systems in the grocery group were absolved of violating the anti-trust laws in affecting consolidations but further study of this question as it affects the drug, confectionery, furniture and variety groups of chain stores is being made.

NO PRIVACY CLAIMS ACTRESS IN ACTION

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 14.—From the time she married Paul Ames, in Chicago Nov. 30 until she separated from him 12 days later in Hollywood, June Knight, pretty screen star, didn't have "one minute's privacy" with her husband, the actress alleged in a divorce complaint today.

Murray Stern, close friend of Ames, was a constant companion of the newlyweds, Miss Knight declared in her complaint. She also charged that Ames was sullen and morose and allowed his family to influence him. Stern served as secretary to Ames, Miss Knight said. His home is in New York.

Alimony in the sum of $1,200 per month is sought by Miss Knight, in addition to $5,000 for her attorneys.

CAUCUS OF OHIO'S LEADERS DELAYED

COLUMBUS, Dec. 14.—The caucus of the 18 Ohio Democratic congressmen which was to have taken place here Thursday was called off by Congressman A. P. Lamneck, (D) of Columbus because of the inability of many representatives to attend it.

"A great many of them," Lamneck said, "are attending committee meetings in Washington and others were held back by the icy roads."

The law says it must not exceed 3 per cent of the tax they collect, but it is at the discretion of the commission to fix it at that point or below.

Four lithographing houses are at work on the printing of the first 550,000,000 sales tax receipts in denominations of one, two, three, six, nine, twelve, fifteen, thirty and sixty cents, $1.50 and $3 for which the state is paying $60,000.

This supply was expected to last Ohio merchants for 60 days. It will take the lithographers two weeks to finish the initial order and another two weeks for the tax commission to distribute the receipts to the 88 county treasurers.

Successful bidders on the printing of tax receipts were the Columbian Bank Note Co., Chicago, 305 million receipts; Reserve Lithographing Co., Cleveland, 205 million receipts; Strohbridge Lithographing Co., Cincinnati, 35 million receipts and the Warner P. Simpson Co., Columbus, 11 million receipts.

DIFFERENT COLORS
Each receipt will be 1 3-8 by 3 inches, perforated down the middle, so the dealer may easily tear it in two, giving the buyer half and retaining half when a sale is made. Each denomination will be on a different colored stock.

FIRE BLAMED ON CIGARET

27 Bodies Have Now Been Recovered From Burned Lansing, Mich., Hotel.

LANSING, Mich., Dec. 14.—A carelessly dropped cigarette in the suite of the hotel manager and delayed alarm to the fire department, were blamed for the Kerns hotel fire disaster, today, as a north charred-body was recovered from the ruins where at least 50 are believed to have perished.

The exact toll of the flames which destroyed the old wooden-flashed hotel early Tuesday morning, remained uncertain today and probably will never be known.

Twenty-seven bodies have been recovered.

An investigating board headed by Edward M. Welch, deputy state fire marshal, reported last night that the fire had been traced to its source in the suite of David M. Kerns, manager of the hotel, who perished in the flames; that 15 or 20 minutes elapsed between the time smoke was first discovered in the hotel, and the sending of the alarm; that drinking parties "throughout the building" preceded the blaze; and that the fire department was handicapped by posse since only one rescue net.

Unable to raise enough ladders to reach the scores of trapped victims who crowded to the windows, the firemen were forced to watch the hotel guests jump to death or serious injury on the pavements or in icy Grand river which flowed past the rear of the building.

The story uncovered by the investigating board was a story of delay, followed by sudden panic as it was realized that scores of the sleeping guests were trapped.

The investigators blamed the heavy loss of life on the fact that hotel employees wasted valuable time in trying to rescue Monroe, who was probably dead when the flames were first discovered.

TWO UNIQUE WOMEN

SALE LAKE CITY, Utah.—Col. Roscoe Turner gained worldwide fame during the recent London-to-Melbourne air races. His wife has a claim to fame also, she explained here on her way to Hollywood from London with Miss Gladys Lyon.

"We have the distinction of being the only American girls who have ever visited England who do not claim to have been asked to dance by the Prince of Wales," she said.
